

Classic Car Snapshots, and Road Signs, and Adverts, and a few Questions!

Yes, our first classic car presentation looked at car snapshots, taken at five year intervals, from 1948 to 1973. A change of scheduled events in the ship's main Neptune Lounge gave us the opportunity to give our first classic car PowerPoint presentation to passengers - and we all enjoyed it indeed. At least 70 passengers showed much enthusiasm in this new topic, and quite honestly, the meeting could have continued well beyond our allocated time of 40 minutes. Question time at the end was continued in the adjoining Morning Light Pub bar, as the classic enthusiasts made themselves known to us. Our Cruise Director also acknowledged the level of interest shown, so we wondered to ourselves, what the future may hold? Within hours we began to find out!

You see, our planned visit to St Maarten Island was cancelled at the last moment due to unfavourable sea conditions caused by Hurricane Tomos. The chosen alternative was to head for our next port of call - Tortola - arriving half a day later. This meant another hurried change of scheduled events, where we offered to give another classic car presentation, hence the Road Signs, Adverts, and a few Questions shown above. At this gathering we really did hit the spot with fellow car enthusiasts onboard, so much so that our audience members were actively helping us along. At one point we all sang both the "Esso sign means happy motoring" advert from years ago, followed by the similar "You can go well on Shell" ditty too! Many questions followed, and we have been constantly talking classic cars all around the ship since.
